

The music of friends

Peachtree Chamber Players celebrates the joy of playing and performing classical solo & ensemble music in the Southern Crescent area of Atlanta, Georgia, USA.

The Peachtree Chamber Players formed in 2015 to offer musical friends an opportunity to play and perform together in the Southern Crescent communities of Atlanta, Georgia, USA. Our players include: LuAnn Latzanich, Piano; Tamara Grizzle, Flute; Sir Anthony Buzzard, Oboe; Laurie Searle, Clarinet; Becky Adams, French Horn; and Caroline Beson, Bassoon.

About Chamber Music

The term “chamber music” is used to describe a form of classical music composed for a small group. In early times, this music was performed in the chamber of a palace or any small room. The music is composed with one performer to a part, and typically doesn’t include solo instrument performances. Because of its intimate nature, chamber music has also been described as “the music of friends.”

About our Programs

Our hour-long programs include a variety of classical and popular selections. Admission is free; however, donations or stipends are welcome.
